see separate sheet

Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

Reference is made to the following document:

D1: HEDSER VAN BRUG: "Temporal phase unwrapping and its application in shearography systems" APPLIED OPTICS, vol. 37, no. 28, 1 October 1998 (1998-10-01), pages 6701-6706, XP002244333

Novelty

The document D1 is regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 1, and shows (the references in parentheses applying to this document):
a shearography system for measuring surface shapes, comprising a two-camera polarization phase-stepped system (page 6705, fig. 6 and 7).

The subject-matter of claim 1 differs from this known interferometer in that it comprises an optical phase filter placed in one of the split beams.

The subject-matter of claim 1 is therefore new (Article 33(2) PCT).

Inventive step

The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as how to generate a predetermined phase plane for a single of the split beams.

The solution to this problem proposed in claim 1 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) for the following reasons: document D1 does not suggest such a modification to the shearography system of D1. Also the other document found during the search does not contain any teaching in this sense.

The consideration on novelty and inventive step given above for method claim 1 likewise apply, mutatis mutandis, to the corresponding apparatus claim 13.

Claims 2-12 and 14-22 are dependent on claims 1 and 13 respectively and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.
